

BookData MARC

Books and other published media in MARC format.

BookData MARC is a unique service providing library quality MARC records from our database of over 9 million English-language titles (in print and forthcoming) plus 2.2 million out-of-print records. The service allows access to titles published all over the world, with the latest price and availability information, and is enhanced by British Library MARC information to deliver an unrivalled source of UKMARC and MARC21 data from one source, ensuring consistency of data.

BookData MARC includes records from over 60,000 publishers (large and small) based in the UK, Ireland, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and over 70 other countries. In addition we work closely with US data suppliers so you will be able to access 5.4 million US records, providing the most comprehensive international coverage of rich data, supplemented by up-to-date trade information.

We present our records in a concise manner – each record carries all territorial and pricing information for each market under one unique ISBN.

The perfect cataloguing solution

BookData MARC delivers all the information you need for current and retrospective cataloguing, providing a consistent and cost-efficient service for cataloguers.

Comprehensive international coverage: all forthcoming, in print and out-of-print titles available on the Nielsen Book database in MARC format taken from both large and small publishers (UK, Ireland, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and US).

Descriptive content: including short and long descriptions, series information, audience levels, literary awards, physical attributes, synopses and tables of contents.

Up-to-date information: constantly refined and updated with over 443,500 new records added and 51 million changes made each year, of which 42.3 million are price and availability.

Timely data: available from all the major publishers at least 16 weeks ahead of publication date.

Choice: UKMARC and MARC21 formats.

Adherence to all major library standards: including AACR2, DDC, LCSH, LCC, Genre headings, BIC Classifications, E4Libraries Subject Category Headings and BookScan Product Classes.

BookData MARC is available via two services:
